The sub-committee of the Seventh District Democratic Committee, ap-District Democratic Committee, appointed to perfect the arrangements for the congressional primary election, of June 25, and composed of R. H. Anderson, Scott county, chairman; W. B. Crabb, Henry county, and W. D. Davis, Woodford county, met in Lexington Tuesday. They passed a resolution asking for bids for the printing of approximately 35,000 ballots. Chairmen of the eight county committees men of the eight county committees in the district where notified to report the number of ballots that will be needed in each precinct. Meetings will be held in all the counties of the district within the next few days for the number of selecting officers for the purpose of selecting officers for the primary election.

Conrgessman J. Campbell Cantrill, of Scott county, and State Senator Calude M. Thomas, of this county, who are the candidates for nomination have each put up $1,500 to defray the expenses of the primary.

Primary Election Officers Named

At the meeting of the Democratic County Committee held in the county court room Wednesday afternoon, for the purpose of selecting officers of election to serve in the primary on June 25, a list of names from both candidates in the Congressional race were submitted and from which were chosen the following officers:

A. 7. Rice, judge; John Arkle, sher-

Democracy is of such a strong variety that he cannot speak in a meeting over which a Republican presides and asks Democrats not to vote for Thomas because the President of the Burley Society, Mr. Clarence Lebus, who he says is a Republican, is backing him. That kind of a plea may fool some Democrats who want to be fooled, but it won't pull the wool over the eyes of those who can reason. Mr. Cantrill must not presume too much on the credulity of the public.

Mr. Thomas' Democracy is unassailable. There should be no hesitancy among Democrats as to whom they will support. The man who has betrayed the party once will do it again when occasion offers.

His speech was a vigorous, teres, high-pitched presentation of his claims for the support of Democrate of Fayette county, and its recepion was most enthusiastic.

Mr. Thomas' references to Mr. Canrill's alleged breach of faith in making this race, and the effect of his present warfare upon the totacco grower's organization were direct and unequivocal. The manifest sympathy of the court day crowd proved a strong and representative following in Fayette. His remarks were repeatedly cheered by the large crowd.

Introduced By Mr. Kimball.

Mr. Thomas was introduced by former Congressman W. P. Kimball. Mr.

"You couldn't imagine three subjects more diversified than those, and yet the orations were all delivered within the space of a week. I mention that merely as an incident that it may not be overlooked by him who shall be chosen to write the life of W. C. P. Breckinridge.

This subdivision is not an experiment, already twenty houses have been built there and more are contracted for. Water mains have been laid, electric lights burn there every night; a fire hydrant is already there; Nine teenth street, running directly through this property has been macadamized and many concrete walks have been built. You don't have to develop this property, it is already developed.

The city of Paris is growing toward the South, and this subdivision is in South Paris. Remember it is close to the new railroad yards, where the Louisville & Nashville Rairload Company is now putting in improvements costing over $250,000. It is on the Paris and Lexington interurban railroad, and city cars pass each way twice every hour. What more can you ask for? If you don't want the trouble of building, we will sell at the same time and place to new cottages, with modern conveniences, in perfect repair, on Nineteenth street. THE CONGRESS IONAL RACE.

[Editorial From Lexington Herald June 15, 1910.]

From 1 o'clock till 6-how many hours is that? Five, according to the clocks. Monday we stood on our own feet while the hands of the clock marked these hours, to hear the speeches delivered in the Circuit. Court room by William Preston Kimball-introducing Claude M. Thomas, and by Mr. Thomas, and on Cheapside by J. Campbell Cantrill and Clarence LeBus. We were anxious to hear all said when the two candidates for the Democratic nomination for Congress first addressed the voters of Fayette County.

The news columns of The Herald yesterday gave impartial accounts of the meetings and the speeches by Mr. Thomas, Mr. Cantrill and Mr. LeBus, as near in full as our space permitted. We tried to present all the facts of each meeting together with a stenographic report of the speeches of each candidate, that the voters of the district may have the facts before them to determine how they shall cast their votes. We believe Mr. Cantrill and Mr. Thomas will each concede that the account of his meeting and his speech was fair and full. We want the news columns of The Herald to present the facts in this canvass uncolored and unbiased.

We made no editorial comment yesterday, desiring that the paper should first go to the voters with an impartial account of the meetings. This morning we give our impressions of the meetings and of the speeches, that, with the knowledge that we are earnestly in favor of the nomination of Mr. Thomas, the value of what we say may be judged by each reader of The Herald. We want to be fair both to Mr. Thomas and to Mr. Cantrill, not believing it proper to do either injustice.

We were a little late in getting to the court room and had great difficulty in getting in, scores of voters who were attracted by the announcement that Mr. Thomas would speak being unable to get into the court room. which was crowded to the doors. We were struck with the texture of the audience there gathered. There were comparatively few men from Lexington, it being made up almost altogether of country men, and the greater proportion, of Fayette county people. While the majority of the audience showed from the beginning that they were enthusiastically for Mr. Thomas, there were evidently a number who had come to hear him, either undetermined how they would vote, or opposed to him.

While we had heard Mr. Thomas in the Court House and in the Senate, it was the first time we had ever heard him deliver a political speech; and we were agreeably surprised. We knew he was a man of ability, a trained lawyer, an honest gentleman. But we were not aware of the fact that he is an orator, at times reaching a height of eloquence rarely surpassed. With a most winning personality, a pleasing voice and wide and accurate learning, if elected to Congress, Claude M. Thomas will rank among the ablest and most eloquent of its members.

His speech was pitched on a high plane and indicated an adequate conception of the responsibilities which must be met and the duties which must be performed by a member of Congress in accordance with the traditions of those who have made the Ashland District famous . His picture of the type of man which should represent this district and of the opportunities which a representative from this district might have to be of service to the people of the country in a Congress which the Democratic party will control, as it will the next Congress, was striking.

His condemnation of the course pursued by Mr. Cantrill was vigorous, aggressive and convincing. The letter which he read from Mr. Cantrill to him, written two years ago, in which Mr. Cantrill promised not to be a candidate against him, but to support him in case he was a candidate, together with his account of the circumstances under which Mr. Cantrill became a candidate this year, seemed unanswerable. After hearing Mr. Cantrill's explanation we see no reason to change our mind.

Briefly, Mr. Cantrill's explanation, which was published in full in yesterday's issue of The Herald, so that every reader of The Herald has it before him, is that he made that promise two years ago; that in the early part of this year he asked Mr. Thomas if he was going to run; that Mr. Thomas said he did not then know; that Mr. Thomas further said-which, however, Mr. Thomas absolutely denies-that, unless he notified Mr. Cantrill within two weeks that he would be a candidate, Mr. Cantrill was at liberty to make the race.

There is a direct question of veracity between Mr. Cantrill and Mr. Thomas as to this verbal conversation. It does not seem reasonable that Mr. Cantrill's account is accurate. Why Mr. Thomas should have made any such statement when he had an ambition to make the race for Congress and had the written pledge of Mr. Cantrill not to make the race against him, when the election was nearly eight months off, we are unable to understand.

There was no intimation in the letter which Mr. Cantrill wrote Mr. Thomas that Mr. Cantrill reserved the right to demand that Mr. Thomas make up his mind whether he would run or not by any fixed time. It was a matter within Mr. Thomas' control absolutely as to whether he would run or not, and as to when he would make his determination.

Mr. Cantrill's interpretation of the whole proceeding seems to us as reasonable, and no more reasonable than would be the contention of a debtor who had given a note, and because the man to whom it was given did not constantly and repeatedly announce that he expected the payment of the note, to claim that he was released from payment.

Listening to both as we did with great care, we are unable to reach any other conclusion than that Mr. Cantrill's action is a distinct violation of a definite pledge. We submit these facts to the readers of The Herald for whose benefit we published the full statement made by both Mr. Cantrill and Mr. Thomas, that there may be no question as to the contention

We did not stay quite to the finish of Mr. Thomas' speech, leaving to hear Mr. Cantrill and listening with careful attention from the time he began until he finished, then staying to hear Mr. LeBus and Mr. Cantrill's rejoinder.

* * * *

Rarely have we heard a speaker with a more powerful and penetrating voice than has Mr. Cantrill; we were able to hear every word he spoke, though we were in the second story of the Court House and he was speaking against the disturbing noises of Cheapside, with the accompanying disorder of county court day. Vigorous, aggressive, adroit, able, he is one or the best stump speakers we have heard in Kentucky for many a day. Rarely have we heard one who emphasized with greater force those points which he desired to emphasize and evaded with greater skill reference to those subjects he did not desire to discuss or glossed them over as if apparently of no importance.

The audience which heard him numbered between six and eight nundred, possibly more. It was one of the most curious mixtures we have ever seen gathered together. There were many men of Fayette county, but a large proportion of the audience was from Scott county and a larger proportion from the city of Lexington, and a majority of those from Lexington whom we recognized are directly or indirectly interested in the liquor busi-

The two main thoughts which ran through Mr. Cantrill's speech were the denunciation of the action of the Burley Tobacco Society in opposing his election ,and a plea to the Democratic voters to support him because of his Democracy.

We agree thoroughly with Mr. Cantrill that the Burley Tobacco Society ought not to be in politics. It ought never to have been in politics. It ought not to have aided in his nomination over Mr. Kimball. It was a mistake for it to do so. It has no business meddling in politics. It had no business taking part in that primary between Mr. Cantrill and Mr. Kimball. But there is no man in the district who does not know that Mr. Cantrill would never have been nominated for Congress had it not been for the support he received from the members of the Burley Tobacco Association. There is much greater reason for the Burley Tobacco Society to take part in this race than there was in that race. It seems somewhat curious, thought it is illustrative of Mr. Cantrill's adroitness, that he should pitch his fight now upon the injustice and impropriety of the association which nominated him two years ago, taking part in a political contest.

As Mr. Cantrill denounced the action of the Burley Tobacco Association we could but wonder if he did not feel that he might substitute for the name of the Burley Tobacco Association the liquor interests. We noticed the crowd with care; we noted those who seemed to be in charge of the arrangements; we watched with interest the scouts who circulated through the crowd; we noted that one of them stood constantly back of Mr. LeBus and on several occasions apparently read over his shoulder the papers which Mr. LeBus had and then reported the contents to one of the captains; we came to the conclusion that the open participation of the Burley Tobacco Association in politics is better than the secret participation of the liquor interests when those interests are consolidated, as they seem

DEATHS.

-Mrs. Ida D. Piper, wife of Mr. Z. T. Piper, died at an early hour Wednesday morning at her home on Walker Avenue of pneumonia, age 62 years. Mrs. Piper contracted a cold last week which assumed serious form, and her decline was rapid.

Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Mr. Samuel Piper, who resided with his parents, and Mr. Steele Piper of Kansas City, Mo, and one daughter, Mrs Ida Butler, of Knoxville, Tenn., who was with her mother during her last hours. Mr. Steele Piper arrived from Kansas City Wednesday, a few hours after his mother's death.

The funeral services will be conducted at the residence Friday morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. B. M. Shive of the Second Presbyterian church. The pall bearers will be Bishop Hibler, James Shea, L. R. Bramblette, Steele Marsh and Howard D. Carpenter.

The interment will be in the Car-liele cemetery, the pall hearres at the latter place being Mrs. Piper's neph-ews—Claude Reynolds, William See, Ernest Piper, William H. Piper, Wil-liam Robb and Frank Reynolds.

The news of the death in Chicago of Mr. James Short, was received by telegram Wednesday morning. Mr. Short formerly resided in Paris, being a son of the late James Short. Free Child's

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since. in half and crush them" is an annoy-house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

beyond question to be in this race, in support of a man who before he was elected to Congress was the representative at Frankfort of those interests, and in opposition to a man whose crime in their eyes is that he differs with them in his public course.

It is perfectly proper for the men directly or indirectly concerned in the liquor business to take what political action they think best for their protection. But if they are to act solidly they will solidify the forces who are not subservient to them. For their own sake they are making a grievous

We listened to Mr. Cantrill's speech with constant expectation that he would refer to the charges made that he was not for the last Democratic State ticket and was opposed to the election of Governor Beckham, the Democratic nominee for Senator, and in favor of the election of Senator Bradley. He referred casually and briefly to the charge that he was not for the Democratic State ticket, practically dismissing it with the statement that it was not worthy of discussion. But in the two hours he spoke we tailed to hear a single reference to the charge that he was opposed to the election of Governor Beckham and favored the election of Governor Bradley as a member of the United States Senate, his colleague in the Upper House.

Was, or was Mr. Cantrill not, in favor of the election of Governor Beckham? Was, or was he not, in favor of the election of Governor Bradley? He was constantly at Frankfort during that session of the Legislature. He was one of the most influential men not a member of the Legislature, and more influential by far than many members of the Legislature. He was in close touch with the members of the Legislature, particularly with certain elements in the Legislature. Did, or did he not, use the influence he had for the election of the Democratic nominee as Senator, or for the defeat of that nominee and the election of the Republican candidate?

In view of his claim for the support of Democrats because of his Democracy, this is a question of vital moment, one which he has not the right to ignore, one which it is incumbent upon him to answer with frankness and detail. It is incumbent upon him to answer promptly that his answer, if conclusive of his support of the Democratic nominee, may be known to every Democrat in the district, and if not conclusive, that it may also be known and those who make the charge have an opportunity either to prove their charge or to retract and apologize for making an unjust charge.

We were surprised at the conduct of Mr. LeBus, the President of the Burley Tobacco Society, during Mr. Cantrill's speech. We do not think it any more proper that he should have made himself conspicuous during that speech and have attracted the attention of the audience, as he did by standing up on a chair and bowing when reference was made to him, than was the conduct of those who attempted to prevent him from answering Mr. Cantrill after Mr. Cantrill had closed his speech.

Severe as is our condemnation of those who attempted to keep Mr. LeBus from speaking, strong as is our opinion that they made a grave political mistake, injuring their candidate, Mr. Cantrill, instead of Mr. LeBus, we do not censure them as we would had Mr. LeBus not been guilty of what we thought impropriety during Mr. Cantrill's speech.

Mr. Cantrill was entitled to a fair hearing without interruption, as every man is entitled to a fair and courteous hearing without interruption from those who are opposed to him. Mr. LeBus, if he desired to speak after Mr. Cantrill finished, was also entitled to a fair and courteous hearing. Those who did not desire to hear him were not compelled to stay. He had the same right to speak on Cheapside as did Mr. Cantrill, no greater and no less right. If he thought it incumbent upon him as President of a Society, the success of which is of more importance to the people of Kentucky at present than any other one as ociation in the State, it was his duty to say what he had to say .

But it was not proper, under any circumstances, for a public speake to be interrupted by act or word. We protest against it now as we protested in the days when John G. Carlisle was egged at Covington; when an effort was made at Georgetown to prevent Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge from speaking, which effort would have resulted in bloodshed except for his coo'ness and the devotion of friends of supreme courage in that city, when William Lindsay and Josiah Patterson were insulted in the city of Lexington; when Stephen Sharpe, Butler Southgate and other speakers were insulted and almost assaulted in the Gubernatorial contest of 1899, in which Mr. Cantrill first gained any political prominence. We do not wish to see such methods permitted in political campaigns in Kentucky. We think it incumbent upon us to express these views at this time.

We have rarely seen in any political gathering, even in the exciting days of 1899 when Governor Goebel was a candidate for Governor, or in the Bryan-McKinley race of 1896, nor in the Breckinridge-Owens race of 1894, a scene which contained possibilities of more dramatic interest than the scene on Cheapside Monday. Mr. Cantrill, the former advocate of the Burley Tobacco Society, a member of Congress because of his support of that association, to whom was due in large measure the success of the first pool and to whose influence was ascribed by many the spirit of violence which resulted in the night riding, particularly in the counties of Scott, Woodford and Franklin, attacking with bitterness and specious logic the pool in the success of which millions of dollars of the farmers of Central Kentucky is involved. He was standing on an old wagon, surrounded by nearly a thousand men, some interested in his success because of their opposition to the pool, others interested in the defeat of Mr. Thomas because of his opposition to the waisky interests, others bound to Mr. Cantrill by the ties of friendship coming from propinquity and common interests. Immediately at the rear of the wagon stood Clarence LeBus, the President of the Burley Tobacco Society, bitterly assailed and vehemently denounced by the speaker for participating in the Congressional race as well as for his conduct of the topacco pool, accepting every reference to him with a smile and a bow, attracting the attention of the audience on numerous occasions by standing on a chair, determined, it was known, to answer Mr. Cantrill. There were intimations that Mr. LeBus would make charges against Mr. Cantrill that would be more sensational than anything that has occurred in the campaign, and he was surrounded by kinsmen and friends of Mr. Cantrill, some of whom made a point of always being immediately next to him. The scene contained the possibility of tragedy or of comedy equal to any play on any stage.

* * * * Disapproving as we do Mr. LeBus' conduct while Mr. Cantrill was speaking, neither we nor any other man can fail to admire the courage which made him face a hostile audience, the perfect command of his temper which enabled him to meet the jeers and hoots and cat calls of those determined that he should not speak, the determination with which he waited and the skill with which he finally overcame the apparently pre-arranged disorder.

Mr. Captrill did properly and wisely in urging his friends to listen, to give Mr. LeBus a courteous hearing, though if his plea for their votes is no more effective than his plea for their silence, he will not get very many votes from those who were guilty of that disorder.

Dangerous Situation. "I only mention that I consider it most dangerous situation in our public life today. I am glad that at east a few of the scoundrels who have been selling their birthrights are be ing accorded the punishment which they deserve. In I'linois five officials have been indicted for selling their birthright-voting for the present junior senator for that great Commonwealth, and I am ashamed to say that out of those five, I think four of them were alleged Democrats.

"My opinion is that this is the most terrible vice with which our people have to contend. I believe that the vote-seller is more infamous than any man with whom we come in contact. I believe that any man who will sell the right of the people who elected him to office is a traitor to his country, and ought to be put to death.

'My opponent in this race has contended that there is but one issue between him and me, and that is, he says, our respective positions in regard to the Burley Tobacco Society, ī favoring it and he against it.
